Cuba.

The National Intelligencer, of this morning, publishes the following extract of a letter from a gentleman in New York, "whose correspondence in England is from the most respectable and well-informed sources." He says:

"I have a letter by the last British steamer which states that Spain, France, and England are negotiating a treaty respecting the guaran Cuba. The conditions are, that Cuba shall have a Local Legislature-a representation in the Cortes at Madrid-and that provision shall be made for the gradual abolition of Slavery in the Island. I consider the information very reliable."

This may prove a serious undertaking for France and England. The part assumed by France, especially, may be difficult to perform. While all the tendencies of her present admin istration are monarchical-while her influence in Italy and throughout Europe is made to strengthen the cause of despotism-while the administration of her laws at home, in the suppression of the liberties of the press, and otherwise, is of the same character-the republican knowledge of her people is progressing, and her rulers may, ere long, be compelled to become her servants, and find themselves without the ability to fulfil the stipulations of a treaty that has for its object the prohibition of a republican government in any part of the world.

The extinction of slavery is the dearest object England has at heart, and she may be willing to sacrifice much to accomplish it; and the pur poses of the British government will find aid in the benevolent sentiments of the people of England; but far different are the motives of that government and people. The former is devoting its utmost energies to two great purposes, both tending to one great effect, viz: the extinction of slavery in the United States, and thereby the prostration of the cotton culture; and the production of this great staple in her own far-distant colonies in India.

With this policy, we remark, the masses o the people of Great Britain, whose views are limited to the single benevolent object of emancipating the slaves of this continent, are prompt to concur. They see in it nothing but pure and disinterested benevolence, such as actuates themselves. We are therefore prepared to see England adhere with tenacity to the scheme into which she is now entering.

The emancipation of the slaves of all the West India islands may now be regarded as tending towards completion, under the protection and fostering care of the crowns of England and Spain, and the foolscap of France; yet, as we have said, it may prove that they in any law of the United States-confers power sovereigns have a perfect right to "guaranty" republicans claim that they, too, have a mission to fulfil, we are assured by all the monarchists and governments in the world, including two Republican Presidents, (par nobile fratrum!) that oppressed and struggling for freedom, are theft, robbery, piracy, and murder!

There are some old-fogey notions on these Beelzebub. The laws of nations that recognise only the "divine right of kings" cannot be superior to the principles of EQUALITY, JUS-TICE and HUMANITY, upon which true republicanism is based, and cannot long continue to govern the intercourse of the civilized nations of the earth.

CHINESE SERVANTS .- It is stated that a new article of merchandise has made its appearance in Callao and Lima, in Peru. A recent letter states that a vessel had arrived in Callao with three bundred Chinese, the captain or owner of which vessel sells them at the rate of $107 per head, under engagement that they shall be free after the expiration of three years; and that, at present, it is the fashion amongst the Limenians to have Chinese servants.

JAMES H. SKINNER, esq., is named in the Staunton Vindicator for Gov. McDowell's place in Congress. He is the son of Commodore Skinner, U. S. N., and is well known in this city as an able, accomplished, and high-souled American citizens, in their last extremity, in a countries do not abandon their subjects-has National Intelligencer of yesterday (Wednesday) comes to the rescue of the Administration as follows:

"Having received the above Circular from its author, we publish it without reserve, just as it came to us. It is due to the Prisspers of the United States, however, to say, that, in his Proclamation against the criminal enterprice known to be meditated against Cuba, he did no such thing as 'proclaim that they [the prisoners] were out of the pale of the law.' Nor, we are morally certain, did Mr. Owen, the United States Consul at Havana, in his communication to the prisoners, whatever language he may have employed, represent the President have used such language. There is much virtue in words, in such a case as this, and much mischief in misrepresenting them. The President's Proclamation is on record, and speaks for itself. There is no such language in it."

What, Messrs. Editors of the Intelligencer, (you who so well know the "virtue in words,") is the duty of the President and his subordinate consular agents? Is it not to see that the laws and treaties are observed by friends and by his duty to maintain, and also to see that Spain dimes and applause may prove very acceptaobserves 7

In vol. 8, p. 142, article 7, (See Little and Brown's edition,) United States Laws and Treaties, will be found the agreement between the United States and Spain. To it the attention of Mr. Gales is specially invited.

"And it is agreed, that the subjects or citizens of each of the contracting parties, their vessels, or effects, shall not be liable to an embargo or detention on the part of the other, for any military expedition or other public or private purpose whatever: And in all cases of seizure, letention or arrest for debts contracted or ofences committed, by any citizen or subject of the one party, within the jurisdiction of the other, the same shall be made and prosecuted by or-der and authority of law only, and according to the regular course of proceeding usual in such cases. The citizens and subjects of both parties hall be allowed to employ such advocates, solicitors, notaries, agents, factors, as they may judge proper, in all their affairs and in all their trials at law in which they may be concerned before the tribunals of the other party; and such agents shall have free access to be present at the proceedings in such causes, and in the taking of all examinations and evidence, which may be exhibited in the said trial."

This is the language of the treaty made with Spain by Washington himself, through the celebrated Pinckney, on the 27th of October, 1795. By turning to page 262 of same volume, it will be seen that the twelfth section of the treaty made with Spain in 1819, by Mr. Monroe, through John Quincy Adams, is expressly "confirmed:" and it is at this moment in full force.

The duty of the President, then, is to see hat "in all cases of seizure, detention or arrest, for offences committed by any citizen or subject of the one party within the jurisdiction of the other, the same shall be made and prosecuted by order and authority of law only, and according to the regular course of proceeding usual in such cases." It is also the duty of the President, through his subordinate Consular agents, to see that citizens who have been seized or detained by Spanish officers, to be tried for offences, are allowed "to employ such advocates as they may judge proper," &c., &c.

Has the President faithfully discharged this duty? Let two things answer: first, his proclamation; second, the conduct of his Consulwho, of course, acted under his instructions.

A portion of the proclamation of President Fillmore reads thus: "Now, therefore, I have issued this my proclamation, warning all persons who shall con-nect themselves with any such enterprise or expedition, in violation of our laws and national obligations, that they will thereby subject themselves to the heavy penalties denounced against such offences, and will forfeit their claim to the protection of this government, or any interference on their behalf, no matter to what extremities they may be reduced in consequence of their illegal conduct."

What clause in the Constitution-what clause the President to declare a forfeiture of Their mission is that of freedom-freedom to the right of a citizen to the protection of his sengers on board, and, as usual of late, many of the enslaved; and of course there is no law to country? No such power has been granted to them had to take up the line of march to Washrestrain them. Great nations and legitimate an executive officer; if lodged anywhere, it is ington to find hotel accommodations. See to a power conferred upon the judiciary. What! it, merchants of Georgetown. Many of these a fertile and beautiful island in the western Can the President outlaw whom he pleaseshemisphere to a corrupt and decaying monarchy and that, too, without trial-when absent from reland and Virginia, in search of a Fall and in the eastern, to deny to the island the right of home and friends, and when in peril in a forself-government, and to prevent forever the eign land? Kings and Emperors may have growth of republican institutions; but should the power, without a hearing of any kind, and whether at home or abroad, to seize the property, and outlaw the person of a citizen-to forfeit all his claims to the protection of govern- horse ran off and smashed his buggy to pieces; ment, without a moment's warning, and upon but, I rejoice to say, the Doctor and the horse their actions, though they be in intent but to the merest whim and the idlest caprice; but came off unhurt. give aid to a PROPLE whom they believe to be the President of this Republic is not yet either a King or an Emperor; and, however much he may desire to outlaw citizens unheard, without wheat to the Lock Mills at 764 cents. the benefit of an honest and impartial trial, he subjects that must be discarded and blown to is yet powerless to do more than exhibit his phia. desires, unless he tramples upon the laws.

> Mr. Owen, in failing to make an effort to naintain the rights of citizens of the United States in Cuba, failed to do his duty. And the President, in not requiring the Consul to see that the seventh article of the treaty of 1795 Star, 22 miles, do.; Thomas Jefferson, 62 miles, was observed by the Spanish authorities, in limestone; H. Smith, 61 miles, flour; J. Van good faith, failed to do his duty.

> The Intelligencer may affirm that the President did not say "the prisoners were out of the pale of the law," but, after allowing all the sylvania, J. Long, Gen. Cass, M. Hoffman, J. 'virtue in words" which he can justly claim, A. Magruder, Lady, D. J. McCoy. can he say that the President did not practically "forfeit their claim to the protection of this Government," by abandoning them, as he clearly did, through his subordinate, Owens. In their distress he failed to insist upon the observance of the seventh article of the treaty, but left them to their fate, and to the kindness of the British Consul!

> In spite of all the "virtue in words," this great and most unpleasant truth must remain-that foreign country, applied for and obtained from the consular agents of foreign governments that aid and consolation which they in vain implored their own! be chosen on the second Monday in October.

The official abandonment of our citizens to the unrestrained cruelty of the Spaniards of Cuba—and that, too, when the officials of Britain Cuba-and that, too, when the officials of Britain sists of a dozen "artistes" whose excellent skill and France and other nations entered the Span- we have heard very highly praised. This is accounted for by the circumstance of their having seen rather more than they bargained for. But why should they object to uniting instruction with amusement-to seeing fair ladies in the mazy dance, and studying myology upon the living subject! To the tastes of many the art of dancing is most perfect when the display is most flesh-colored.

The musical accompaniments are said to be very superior, and the applause occasionally deafening-this, however, when the sense of seeing is the only one that offends against good order and morality.

The troupe will no doubt be well patronised, and if the ladies of our city do not avail themselves of the opportunity to witness them, it is suggested that there are some residents foes, by nations and by individuals? If so, here who are not ladies, to whose tastes the what is the language of the treaty which it is scene will prove quite congenial, and whose ble.

> FIRE .- About ten o'clock last night the car enter-shop of Mr. John Sniffen, near the Smithsonian Institution, was discovered to be on fire, and in a few minutes, together with the adjoining shed, was enveloped in flames. A arge quantity of work, principally for Brown's ew building, was destroyed, together, we regret to add, with the tools of a number of the workmen. The entire loss is upwards of four thousand dollars, there being no insurance on the property. It was doubtless the work of an incendiary.
